

1 Personal Goals

During this project I am hoping to mainly discover the group dynamics of this cohort. Of course I hope to learn new things from all the lectures given and our subgoal for the grand project. But I think during the short duration of this project I will learn more about the way people work and their strengths. This will allow me to work together with them both during the project and after.

With respect to the lectures given I am hoping to get a good idea about the subjects discussed but I am not sure I want to understand them all completely. I think it has value to know about a lot of different fields of research but to know a lot about everything is in my eyes not worth while.

Regarding the people I am hoping to get to know the group more. This both from a professional and personal point of view. Since I am new in the group I hope to get some social contacts out of this course as well as the knowledge who does what best.

Besides the things I want to learn I also hope we can give the group a nice and effective end product for our sub project. For this I hope to see that the follow up group has (in the perfect case) no issues with reproducing our project without us having contact. I think this will be done by documenting the project well and writing code that is both easy to understand as well as in structure.
